Jail Rights Hecklers, Councilman Suggests

8-POINT PLAN TOLD BY CHAMBER

Expanded and accelerated effort in the field of industrial development is proposed as a top priority program of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce during the coming fiscal year. The industrial development committee of the Chamber, in the very near future, will propose to the board of directors an eight point program for vigorous industrial promotion:

1. Constant effort to improve the area's competitive position relative to plant location factors, such as: water and sewer services, highway and street traffic, fire and police protection, planning and zoning, public health and hospitals, housing, drainage, schools, taxes and legislation, cultural, recreation and sports, local government and the general community attitude toward industry.

2. A concentrated effort to develop more industrial sites with complete facilities. Work to provide existing sites with whatever additional facilities might be needed. Promote industrial districts or parks, especially for prospects wanting small sites. Obtain and maintain protective zoning for industrial areas.

3. Maintain comprehensive information on plant location factors, including a complete site and building survey with up-to-date data on every available piece of property — either land or buildings.

4. Maintain a list of potential industrial prospects by constant contact and work with public utilities, railroads, banks, other industries and others — such as county and state agencies — keep an up to date prospect list.

5. Organize and promote visits to potential prospects, recruit volunteers who will travel to various parts of the country, and who are willing to call on potential prospects to supplement staff trips.

6. Develop and plan a program of cooperative advertising. Secure cooperation of firms now doing national advertising, and others who will be willing to handle a joint program.

7. Maintain an inter-agency relationship through the Chamber of Commerce, which will meet regularly to review problems of industrial development. Arrange quarterly meetings of representatives from the City of Torrance, the County Board of Supervisors, the railroads, the trucking companies, industrial realtors, and other agencies or organizations which should be interested in a successful industrial program.

8. Maintain special subcommittees to work with active prospects in conducting the program.

ROSS SCIARROTTA

Sciarrotta Lashes Out At Extremists

Councilman Ross Sciarrotta today denounced extremists on both sides for "well-organized heckling" which disrupted a civil rights forum Saturday night at Torrance High.

Sciarrotta told The Press "it is my firm belief that we should not let these disrupters get away with it. Our laws should be applied to all, and anyone who purposely and maliciously wrecks the constitutional rights of others should be arrested and tried in accordance with our laws."

Advocates Arrests
The councilman added "I believe in the arrests of trespassers and those who violate our city ordinances."

"By the same token these disrupters are trespassers — trespassers on people's constitutional rights. Let's not let it happen again."

Sciarrotta said he attended the forum and declared a "dozen or so well-organized hecklers did not permit this meeting to take place."

"Most of these people, I am sure, did not represent our good people of Torrance. They came from surrounding communities and represented extreme rightist, extreme leftist, and, I have reason to believe, some were members of CORE."

Sciarrotta pointed out that the first amendment to the Constitution guarantees the people the right to peaceful assembly.

"That right was taken away from the Centinela Bay Human Relations Committee on Aug. 17," the councilman said, "when it tried to hold a meeting in Torrance High School to discuss our race problems."

"This committee tried to have a program composed of representatives from many groups so that the opinions expressed would have covered the issue in its many facets."

Sciarrotta added "I am sure that most of the people assembled there went to listen, to weigh the issues presented, and react according to their own individual convictions. No one is compelled to agree with anyone, any group or any speaker in our Free America."

The councilman criticized some of the hecklers for disrupting the meeting "because they argue that we have a republican form of government and not a democracy (civil rights) is inspired by communists."

Randy Learns About Drink Hard Way

Randy Lou Queener may learn to mix his drinks some day, but it's fairly certain he won't consider turpentine as a desirable mixer.

Randy, of 2340 230th St., is only 18 months old, but he's already had an experience many adults have missed and they're glad of it.

Only alert action by Randy's mother, the Torrance police and fire departments, and Little Company of Mary Hospital saved the boy's life.

Randy's mother, Myrna, had been cleaning porcelain in the family bathroom and had left some turpentine in a paper cup, she told police. Randy came into the room, discovered the cup, and quaffed heartily.

After drinking the fluid, Randy stopped breathing and turned blue, his mother said.

She called police, who rushed the child to the hospital. On the way they met a fire department rescue unit and transferred the oxygen unit to the police car to assist the child's breathing the rest of the way to the hospital.

At Little Company of Mary, doctors took charge in the emergency ward, removed the turpentine and restored Randy's breathing.

He was reported in good condition today, and was expected to go home today.

He's eating and drinking merrily, hospital attendants said, but turpentine's not on the menu.

Helicopter Pilots To Be Trained at Local Airport

Helicopter Institute, Inc., with headquarters at Lockheed Air Terminal in Burbank, announces opening of two new training schools for helicopter pilots.

Formal inauguration of Helicopter Institute branch training centers took place at Torrance Airport and at Ontario International Airport.

Today, demand for qualified pilots far outstrips the supply and Helicopter Institute hopes to rectify this shortage, according to Thomas R. Haskin, president. To this end, they recently purchased six three-place helicopters to go into service at the newly acquired sites.

According to Haskin, the pilot shortage is so critical that many of the recent graduates have been signed up as instructors. Helicopter Institute now has 140 students taking the 60 hour training program and is the world's largest civilian helicopter school.

The Aircraft Institute Assn. reveals that more than 990 helicopters are presently being operated by the 322 commercial helicopter operators in the United States and Canada. In addition, 145 Executive and Companies operate 213 helicopters and 36 Government Agencies operate 112 helicopters. In all, there is a total of 503 units operating 1319 helicopters.

Upjohn Labs Set to Acquire CPR International and TP

Plans for the Upjohn Company, pharmaceutical manufacturers, to acquire CPR International Corp., and TP Industries, Inc. of Torrance Calif., were disclosed here by R. T. Parfet Jr., president and general manager of the Upjohn Co., and T. P. Douglas, president of the two California companies.

The acquisition, which would be made in exchange for 85,000 shares of Upjohn stock, was approved today by the Upjohn Co. board of directors.

CPR International and TP Industries make and sell polyurethane foams, precision molded urethane products and provide related technical services. These polyurethane products have a wide variety of uses in transportation, defense, furniture packaging, refrigeration and flotation industries. Total net earnings for the year ending March 31, 1963, were approximately $201,000.

Negotiations, Mr. Parfet said, followed the acquisition in October, 1962, of the Carwin Company, North Haven, Conn., and Houston, Texas, which now operates as a division of the Upjohn Company, manufacturing organic chemicals including raw materials for urethane polymers, such as isocyanates which are used in foams, elastomers and plastics.

When the acquisition is completed, it is anticipated that the present management would continue and the California companies would operate as the CPR division of the Upjohn Company. CPR will serve as an important outlet for Garwin Products and provide additional technology for further development.
